TO:

The Secretary of State

The Secretary of Defense

The Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT:

Diplomatic Initiatives on Indo-China

The President has directed that a study be prepared of diplomatic initiatives on Vietnam and Indo-China which might be taken following the June 30 completion of current military actions in Cambodia. The study should consider:

- -- U.S. strategy for convoking or participating in an international conference on Indo-China;
- -- Forums in which such a conference could be convoked;
- -- Proposals which the U.S. could put forward to bring about a settlement;
- -- U.S. strategy concerning regional conferences which might be called;
- -- Other initiatives which could be taken to move toward a settlement; and
- -- How proposals put forward or endorsed by the U.S. in an international conference should be related to on-going negotiations on Vietnam.

The study should present the advantages and disadvantages of alternative strategies concerning the U.S. approach to convoking or participating in a conference, of the various types of international forums for a conference, and of proposals which the U.S. might put forward or endorse.

TOP SECRET/SENSITIVE/NODIS
